INTRODUCTION

Microlog: Canadian Research Index puts all of Canada's hard-to-find government and research literature at your fingertips. This monthly indexing, abstracting and document delivery service covers all levels of government in Canada, as well as institutions receiving research grants. Most titles included in Microlog are available in either paper or microfiche format. Combined with a microfiche collection, the Microlog Service is a powerful tool for finding Canadian report publications. The unique Microlog Accession Number is the key to immediate retrieval of any document.

SCOPE

Among other documents, Microlog includes research papers in physical, natural and social sciences, policy papers, important statistics, and annual reports. Every effort is made to ensure the currency of the index. For instance, documents appearing in the Checklist of Canadian Government Publications are delivered by Microlog approximately two months after publication of the list.

LANGUAGE POLICY

Documents issued in English or French are indexed and abstracted in the language of publication, while bilingual documents are indexed and abstracted in both languages.

SOURCES AND COVERAGE

Federal Documents: The Microlog editors review all checklists issued by the Canadian Government Publishing Centre and order every document relevant to the service. Except for serials, maps, pamphlets, and manuals, all monographs covered by the Federal Depository Plan are included in the index. Also, a special effort is made to track down elusive but important titles which do not appear in the lists.

Microlog offers a special collection of documents published by the Federal Government but not issued through the Federal Depository Plan. These titles, available to subscribers as the Non-Depository Publications collection, are indicated in the Titles section by a bullet (•). Microlog is also the direct distributing agent for many government bodies.

Provincial Documents: Depository arrangements with several provincial libraries have been established to ensure that Microlog subscribers receive all publications from those provinces. Where no depository arrangement exists, all publications lists issued by the province are reviewed for acquisitions.

Municipal Documents: Since these titles are very difficult to obtain, the Microlog editors make special efforts to include publications from municipal sources.

ACCESS

The Index provides access by subject, corporate or individual author, and series title.

The full Microlog file from 1979 to date, consisting of almost 50,000 records, is available online through Can/OLE. This is an ideal way to locate hard-to-find reports which may then be ordered directly online through the Can/DOCS service. Contact: Can/OLE Client Services, CISTI, Ottawa, Ontario, K1A 0S2.

FEATURES

Microlog comprises the following sections:

- 1. Titles and abstracts: A full bibliographic citation and a descriptive abstract for each title.
- 2. Name Index: Access by personal author, corporate author, and conference name.
- 3. Series Titles: Lists by title and number all reports in series in the service; series are available as an ongoing subscription or retrospective collection.
- 4. Subject Index: Descriptors based on Library of Congress and Canadiana Subject Headings are assigned to each document. A cross-referencing structure assists searchers
- 5. Microfiche collections: Lists contents of each fiche collection for quick reference. These collections can be used as current awareness lists in broad subject areas to notify users of new acquisitions. This section is included in the annual cumulation as a separate fiched product.

MICROLOG AND CANADIAN STATISTICS INDEX

Statistical Material: The Canadian Statistics Index (CSI) provides further access to statistical material contained in Microlog monographs and special or annual reports. The CSI identification number has been included with the Microlog citation for the convenience of subscribers to the CSI fiche collection.

Annual Reports: Storage of annual reports in a single sequence has been a problem for clients in the past. The CSI numbers for annual reports are now listed in the bibliographic citation and appear on the microfiche header of each report, to make such sequencing possible.

DOCUMENT DELIVERY

Institutions may subscribe to complete or partial collections of the documents in Microlog. Individual copies on microfiche or paper reprint may be ordered through Micromedia's Document Delivery Service. To order, please contact:

INTRODUCTION

Microlog: Index de recherche du Canada met à votre disposition toutes les publications du gouvernement et les travaux de recherche difficiles à se procurer. Combiné aux collections sur microfiches, le service Microlog constitue un outil très efficace pour retrouver les publications des différents gouvernements du Canada, ainsi que celles des organismes qui reçoivent des subventions pour la recherche. Microlog est aussi un service de livraison de documents, sur microfiches ou sous forme imprimée.

CONTENU

Microlog contient entre autres des recherches en sciences physiques, naturelles et sociales, des énoncés de politique, des statistiques et des rapports annuels. Par l'intermédiaire du service Microlog, on peut obtenir les documents qui figurent sur la Liste des publications du gouvernement du Canada environ deux mois après leur parution sur cette liste.

POLITIQUE LINGUISTIQUE

Les ouvrages publiés en français ou en anglais sont indexés et résumés dans la langue de publication; les ouvrages bilingues sont traités dans les deux langues.

SOURCES

Publications fédérales: Les rédacteurs de Microlog examinent les listes émises par le Centre d'édition du gouvernement du Canada et commandent les documents pertinents. En dehors des publications en série, cartes, brochures et manuels, toutes les monographies régies par le Programme de dépôt du gouvernement fédéral figurent dans l'index, ainsi que des ouvrages importants ne figurant pas sur les listes.

Microlog propose aussi une collection spéciale de publications fédérales non déposées, identifiées par un point (•) dans la section Titres et résumés. Microlog est aussi l'agent de diffusion de nombreux organismes gouvernementaux.

Publications provinciales: Des ententes de dépôt ont été conclues avec plusieurs bibliothèques provinciales pour que les abonnés de Microlog reçoivent toutes les publications de ces provinces. Lorsqu'aucune entente n'existe, les listes de publications émises par les provinces sont examinées afin d'acquérir les documents.

Publications municipales: Ces ouvrages étant difficiles à se procurer, les rédacteurs de Microlog redoublent d'ardeur pour les inclure dans l'index.

ACCÈS

L'index Imprimé est bilingue et les publications sont répertoriées par sujet, par auteur (collectivité et personne physique) et par titre de collection.

Le fichier complet de Microlog, de 1979 à aujourd'hui, contient près de 50,000 notices et est accessible sur

Can/OLE. Il s'agit d'un moyen idéal pour mettre la main sur des rapports difficiles à trouver qu'on peut commander par l'intermédiaire du service Can/DOCS. À ce propos, veuillez vous adresser au Service à la clientèle Can/OLE, ICIST, Ottawa (Ontario), K1A 0S2.

ORGANISATION DE L'INDEX

Microlog est divisé en cinq sections:

- 1. Titres et résumés: tous les titres sont catalogués et accompagnés d'un résumé descriptif.
- 2. Index des noms: donne un accès par auteur, collectivité-auteur et titre de conférence.
- 3. Titres de collections: tous les rapports publiés en série sont classés par titre et numéro. Ces collections peuvent être commandées individuellement.
- 4. Index des matières: les descripteurs permettent de trouver facilement les publications pertinentes; un réseau de renvois facilite la recherche.
- 5. Collections de microfiches: chaque collection apparaît dans une section séparée pour faciliter la recherche. Ces listes peuvent aussi servir à renseigner les usagers sur les nouveautés. Dans la refonte, cette section est insérée sous forme de microfiches.

MICROLOG ET L'INDEX DES STATISTIQUES DU CANADA

Données statistiques: L'Index des statistiques du Canada (CSI) constitue une autre source de référence sur les statistiques contenues dans certaines publications indexées dans Microlog. Celles-ci ont un numéro d'ordre spécial qui est inclus dans la référence bibliographique.

Rapports annuels: Afin de rendre le classement des rapports annuels plus facile, le numéro d'ordre CSI correspondant à ces documents figure maintenant dans les références bibliographiques et est inscrit sur les en-têtes de microfiches.

LIVRAISON DE DOCUMENTS

On peut s'abonner à l'ensemble ou à certaines des collections de documents de Microlog. On peut également commander des reproductions de documents sur microfiches ou sur papier par l'intermédiaire du service de livraison de documents de Micromedia. Pour commander, communiquer avec:

Sample CRI Search

"How can a person from a foreign country qualify for refugee status in Canada?"

The researcher can search in CRI as in any library catalogue - by subject, author and title. Because the index is bilingual, searching can be done in English or in French.

Recherche type avec IRC

"Comment une personne d'un pays étranger peut-elle demander le statut de réfugié au Canada?"

La méthode de recherche dans IRC est la même que dans une bibliothèque, puisque les documents sont indexés par auteur, par sujet et par titre. L'index étant bilingue, la consultation peut se faire en français ou en anglais.

Le processus de reconnaissance du statul de réfugié au sens de la Convention de Genève. tel qu'il est énoncé dans la Loi sur l'immigration, sert à déterminer si les personnes qui revendiquent ce statut y ont effectivement droit et peuvent bénéficier de la protection accordée aux réfugiés au sens de la Convention. Ce processus sest avéré inadéquat, tant au point de vue juridique que pratique. Dans ce builletin, on examine les mécanismes en vigueur actuellement et le projet de réforme contenu dans la loi C-55 déposé en mai 1987.

Summarizes the results of a survey by the Scarborough Board's central library to determine its effectiveness in meeting client needs and discover areas of potential change. Surveyed all supervisory officers, principals, vice-principals, and teacher-librarians, as well as a random sample of teachers and business and operations personnel. Found that although the general satisfaction level by users was high, many employees were unaware of library services and resources. Recommended that the staff: embark on a publicity program; offer more training for users and non-users; and consider online access facilities, because of distance/time constraints on some employees.

By A. Hollings. Toronto: Ontario Educational Research Council, 1992. 10 p.: Bibl. Presented at the Ontario Educational Research Council Annual Conference. ONTERIS ON06674 MICROLOG 94-04812 (1 fiche)

Describes the development and use of a database aimed at helping to understand and deal with the high attrition rate of first-year university students at Guelph. Reports some limitations caused by the inclusion of only the Fall entry group and only 18 variables, because of a restriction on database size and the desire to include data for 10 years. Includes basic demographics, high school performance, 1st and 2nd year data and graduation information, if applicable, for 40,000 students. Used for research on the conditions leading to success or failure/dropout, and to furnish the results to the High School Feedback System.

Investigated the range of opportunities to pursue advanced training currently existing in several jurisdictions outside Ontario, including: West Germany, Japan, the United Kingdom, Australia, British Columbia, and California. Found that, in jurisdictions much like Ontario, the degree continues to be the preferred and recognized credential, and in those with strong economies, there was a strong and equal partnership of business, labour and education in the planning, coordination and delivery of advanced training. Also found trends toward eliminating barriers between academic and vocational streams, standardizing core curriculum, encouraging sectoral linkages and intra-institutional cooperation.

An analysis of proposed regulation requiring daytime running lights for motor vehicles was conducted using a form of social cost-benefits analysis of the various possible methods of providing the lights. The total costs, benefits, and net benefits are projected for the future fleet of vehicles in Canada using a simple model that assumes a lifetime of 12 years and slight growth in vehicle sales and in total fleet distance travelled. Costs and benefits are estimated for the lifetimes of vehicles sold from 1989-2000. CA ND SC TR

Bottom trawl stratified random surveys were used to monitor groundfish abundance and distribution on the Scotian Shelf since 1970 and Georges Bank since 1986. Data on hydrographic variables (depit, near-bottom temperature, salinity) have been collected on these surveys at each trawl station. The method of using catch-weighted cumulative distribution was developed to describe and test the association between fish distribution and hydrographic variables. Preliminary application of this methodology to data from the eastern Scotian Shelf indicates that there are significant associations between some species of groundfish and some of the hydrographic variables measured. To facilitate the investigation of these associations for haddock in other areas, this report presents the cumulative distribution curves for bottom depth and near-bottom temperature and salinity weighted by haddock catches. These curves were calculated for all spring, summer, and fall surveys. AP CA CF FI ND NR SC

Until now, Canadians have been reluctant to consider the price that may have to be paid should Quebec separate from Canada. Critical aspects of the constitutional debate have been left unexplored. This seminar examines the consequences for Canadian peace, security and stability should the current constitutional process fall. It presents three scenarios for the future of Canada; a general security analysis of the scenarios; the dimensions of North America, international security, Canadian security, Quebec, the First Nations, the financial and economic dimension, and the international diplomatic dimension. Experiences of other federal and confederal countries are also presented. CA CI EX SS

This document discusses a rather wide ranging area of subjects, all dealing with security in the broadest sense of the word. It not only includes traditional pre-occupations of the Cold War years, but the matters which are now freed to deal with because of the end of the Cold War. Some of these subjects are stemming from far-reaching political, economical and environmental turbulence and from the fact that the plant seems to be reaching the limit of its ability to sustain current levels and types of human activity. Subjects discussed include developing a relevant security framework, the role of the Armed Forces, reevaluating international security institutions, and others.

Child custody and access policy: a brief

To the Federal/Provincial/Territorial Family Law Committee. Ottawa: Canadian Advisory Council on the Status of Women, 1994. ly, 66 p.: Bibl. French ed. (Politique sur la garde...): 94-05102/1. MICROLOG 94-05101 (1 fiche)

The CACSW strongly believes that child custody and access policy must be analyzed by taking into account: the dominant ideals of motherhood in our society; the socio-economic circumstances of women's lives; and the power imbalances within families which can have many economic, psychological, and physical consequences for women and children. Gender-neutral approaches, which treat bias against women as similar to bias against men, can themselves be forms of gender bias in research and analysis. The CACSW calls for the federal/provincial/territorial Family Law Committee to adopt a sustained gender-based analysis in its work.

Comparison of the fishing efficiency of research vessels used in the southern Gulf of St. Lawrence groundfish surveys from 1971 to 1992

By G.A. Nielsen. Moncton, NB: Dept. of Fisheries and Oceans, Gulf Region, Science Branch, 1994. Iv, 56 p.: III. (Canadian technical report of fisheries and aquatic sciences / Canada. Dept. of Fisheries and Oceans; no. 1952 ISSN 0706-6457) MICROLOG 94-04760 (1 fiche)

Stratified random surveys are conducted in the southern Gulf of St. Lawrence annually in September to estimate the abundance of different species of groundfish. These estimates are used in the assessment of stock abundance for cod, white hake, and American plaice. Between 1971 and 1992, there were three research vessels and prior to each changeover, a comparative experiment was conducted to determine the efficiency of the new vessel relative to that of the vessel being replaced. The objectives of the experiments was to quantify any differences in fishing power between vessels, and produce factors, if necessary, by which catches by one vessel could be multiplied to ensure consistency with catches by another, resulting in consistent abundance indices.

In spite of shortening the season and restricting the use of fishing grounds, snow crab resources have been declining in the western region of the Sea of Japan. If such a low level of crab stock persists, more effective improvements will be needed in the fishery. This paper provides analyses of the catch data by Danish selnes and gives some suggestions for the improvement of the crab fishery. CA CF FI ND SC

Constant temperature stability of chemical materials: ASTM E-487

By K.J. Mintz. Ottawa: Energy, Mines and Resources Canada, Canada Centre for Mineral and Energy Technology, Canadian Explosives Research Laboratory, 1994. III, 25 p.: III. (Division report / Canadian Explosives Research Laboratory; EXP 94-01 (TR)) MICROLOG 94-04777 (1 fiche)

To increase the range of tests offered to clients by the thermal analysis laboratory of CERL, it was decided to establish the capability to perform ASTM E-487 Constant-Temperature Stability of Chemical Materials. A related test, ASTM E537-86, is already on CERL's scope of accredited tests. An application will be made to the Standards Council of Canada (SCC) to extend the scope of CERL's current accreditation under ISO/IEC-Guide 25 to include ASTM E537-86. SCC's interpretation of Guide 25 is that the applicant laboratory must have had sufficient experience with a test before it can be placed in its Scope of accreditation. This report shows that the criteria has been met by measuring the constant temperature stability (CTS) of the two chemicals 4-nitrosodiphenylamine (NDPA) and 3-methyl-4-nitrophenol (MNP), mentioned in the standard.

EIS: military flight training: an environmental impact statement on military flying activities in Labrador and Quebec: summary

Ottawa: National Defence, 1994. iv, 79 p.: maps MICROLOG 94-04902 (1 fiche)

Allied flying activity conducted from Canadian Forces Base Goose Bay Labrador, which has been in operation for the last 40 years under various agreements, consists mainly of low-level flying training confined to two designated areas in the Quebec-Labrador peninsula. The current agreement expires in 1996 but the Allies would like to remain at the base under a renewed agreement. This environmental impact statement (EIS) is a comprehensive revision of the 1989 EIS and contains significant additional information and analy ses to respond both to the panel guidelines and the deficiency statement from the original document. It covers the project, the environmental setting, social and biophysical issues, project impacts and responses, and effects monitoring. CA DE EV QU SC TR

The Electronic connection : an essential key to Canadians' survival

Ottawa: Industry Canada, 1994. x, 51 p. French ed. (La Filière électronique...): 94-04978/1. MICROLOG 94-04992 (1 fiche)

The Federal Government proposes to accelerate the development of transcontinental communications for the 21st century by ensuring an electronic highway system is established soon in Canada. The goal is to provide an enabling policy to encourage private investment, speed the work and devel-opment of new services, and ensure that high-speed networks such as CANARIE, CA*net, and others connect with other networks in Canada and the world. The government's policy concerns are to ensure that the education and learning needs of all Canadians are met and that knowledge and skills can be acquired in a flexible and cost-effective manner. This report analyzes these issues and sets out recommendations that advise the Federal Government on how best to work with provincial officials, international organizations, and the private sector to achieve these purposes. Ce document tente de faire le point sur le travail des jeunes du secondaire en cours d'année scolaire. Le premier chapitre présente le portrait du phénomène du travail à temps partiel pendant les études secondaires, son évolution, son ampleur et ses caractéristiques principales. Le deuxième chapitre traite plus particulièrement des motivations des jeunes à travailler et du contexte social et économique dans lequel elles s'inscrivent. Le troisième chapitre tente de faire le point sur les impacts du travail pendant les études, non seulement sur le plan scolaire, mais aussi sur l'ensemble des aspects de la vie des jeunes. Enfin, la dernière par-tie fait état des actions que le Conseil juge nécessaire de proposer à la suite de son analyse de la question. ED LA PR QU SS

On relèvera dans ce rapport deux grandes démarches analytiques évidentes. Avec la prem-lère, qui représente le corps du document, on examine le sujet sous l'éclairage des politiques, on analyse les synergies comme elles se manifestent dans les accords existants de limitation des armements, on décrit une gamme d'effets complémen-taires issus de diverses méthodes de vérification et on aborde la manière dont ces effets influent sur la nature et la portée des efforts déployés pour enrayer la prolifération. En second lieu, on aborde la question d'un point de vue différent, à un niveau d'abstraction plus élevé. Après avoir conçu un modèle formel de certains aspects des synergies en matière de vérification, on mène une analyse mathématique dans l'annexe A pour prouver l'action de plusieurs paramètres dynamiques souslacents

In 1985, the Pacific Salmon Treaty concerning management of Pacific salmon was ratified by the governments of the United States and Canada. A commitment of the treaty was the recording of all sources of chinook mortality, including non-reported mortality during fishing. To evaluate the impact of fisherles on chinook, an independent estimation of total chinook was undertaken to determine total mortality. This estimate could then be compared with the observed sales slip data. This report studies Johnstone Strait and Juan de Fuca Strait. In addition, a special fishery in the mainland inlets (primarily Tribune Channel) was also monitored, as well as in the Sabine Channel. The purpose of this report is to present the methodology and results of the chinook mortality studies conducted during the sockeye and pink seine fisheries in southern B.C.

En décembre 1985, des modifications ont été apportées aux articles du Code criminel du Canada visant la conduite avec facultés affaibiles. Elles ajoutalent deux nouvelles infractions au Code, soit la conduite avec facultés affaibiles causant des lésions corporelles et la conduite avec facultés affaibiles causant la mort, lesquelles donnaient lieu, respectivement, à des peines maximales de 10 et de 14 ans d'emprisonnement. Ce rapport vise à déterminer si ces modifications ont réduit l'ampleur du problème de l'alcool au volant au Canada, et si l'effet a été plus marqué dans certains sousgroupes de la population. On a examiné une grande variété de données sur la conduite avec facultés affaibiles et ses conséquences, c'est-à-dire les accidents liés à la consommation d'alcool, afin d'évaluer l'incidence des modifications législatives.

Les responsables de cent douze programmes de lutte contre la toxicomanie, relevant de la compétence du Service correctionnel du Canada, ont répondu à un questionnaire appelé inventaire d'évaluation des programmes correctionnels sur leurs méthodes de fonctionnement. On a découvert des lacunes dans tous les domaines d'exécution des programmes : mise en oeuvre des programmes, classement des clients, traitement et évaluation. On a également évalué la qualité des programmes. Ce document présente des recommandations précises visant à améliorer la qualité des programmes de lutte contre la toxicomanie du SCC.

Study to evaluate Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd.'s (AECL) sediment-probe technology for an application to the identification of groundwater discharge points of acid mine drainage (AMD) to surface water. The technology was used at sites were AMD discharge to surface water was suspected, then anomalous areas were tested for groundwater parameters and constituents of mine leachate. This report discusses field applications and evaluates the technology. For a limited number of locations, the discharge of groundwater was quantified and at one location, the nickel loading of the receiving river was estimated.

This project, initiated in July 1990, designed, constructed, and evaluated the effectiveness of soil covers and a plastic or geomembrane cover in reducing acid generation in reactive mine tailings. The evaluation consisted of performance monitoring of field test plots at the decommissioned Waite Amulet tallings site and laboratory experiments at Noranda Technology Centre. Four test plots, consisting of two composite soil covers, one geomembrane cover, and a control (tailings without cover) were constructed at the Walte Amulet site. Each test plot was instrumented to measure gaseous ox-ygen concentrations, water content, suction, temperature, and pore water quality at various depths. in addition, a collection basin lysimeter, initially filled with unoxidized tailings, was installed below each cover to measure both the quantity and quality of percolated water. Six columns were installed in the laboratory to simulate soll-covered and un-covered tallings and were measured for gaseous oxygen concentration, water content, temperature, and drainage water during normal wetting or rain applications CA CM ND NR SC

Caraquet Bay is a shallow, semi-enclosed estuarine bay situated on the south shore of the Baie des Chaleurs. The bay supports the most northern commercial population of eastern (American) oyster and the collection and cultivation of oysters is a traditional occupation of the area. A study was un-dertaken in 1988 to measure current, stratification, and larval concentrations to establish the mechanisms of exchange to and from the bay. AP CA CF FI ND SC

Results of a project being conducted at Sussex, New Brunswick that consisted of geological assessment, exploration drilling, and aquifer testing to de-termine the hydrogeological and groundwater po-tential for earth energy applications on the Sussex Health Centre site. The work done was a preliminary exploratory assessment of the local geology, aquifer hydraulics, and the availability and quality of groundwater found in the bedrock geological un-its in the northeast part of Sussex near the industrial park. Work included a review of available geological data, maps, and reports in the area, the interpretation of the data to locate two bedrock test wells, and conducting two step drawdown tests fol-lowed by a 48-hour constant rate pumping test. Map-ping of the south and central portions of the Hope Bay area were conducted over 13 weeks on foot and in helicopter. Mapping wasthe Elu Bay area was conducted over five weeks and was not at extensive. Mineral showings were compiled from as-sessment reports and most were visited. Large gossams were sampled to determine base and pre-cious metal contents using the least weathered material available. A detailed study was undertaken on the Ida point gold showing. Six samples were collected for the uranium-lead geochronology to constrain the timing of volcanism and plutonism in the northeastern SSP. The project examined stratigraphic relationships in the belt; identified and studied the nature of alteration zones in the voicanic rocks; documented the geometry and sequence of structure sets in the area; determined the timing and P-T conditions of metamorphism; and studied the relative importance of the roles played by stratigraphy and deformation in control-ling the distribution of mineral showings in the bett. To this end, 1:30,000 geological mapping, petrographic studies, and geochemical analyses are be-ing carried out. This report describes the geology of the area mapped to date and the various struc-ture sets recognized and discusses evidence for the timing of deformation. Results of a reconnaissance assay sampling program and conclusions re-garding the distribution of mineral showings in the bett are presented. CA ND NO NR SC

Summary of two years of research to develop ground stability guidelines related to pillar design and barrier pillar extraction strategies for hard rock mining operations. Design guidelines were developed at the Myra Falls operations that were used to develop new comprehensive pillar strength formu-lae. The study evaluates the factors that influence the stability of mine pillars in hard rock mining operations. Extensive numerical modelling was undertaken to determine the implications of the planned barrier piliar extraction sequence and the case histories in the Westmin piliar database were augmented by an additional 147 case histories from published hard rock pillar data to develop im-proved empirical hard rock strength formulae and a proposed fundamental empirical hypothesis, the confinement formula, governing the strength of hard rock mine pillars. Hydrology database storage for the Dorset Research Centre

By M.N. Futter ... et al. Ottawa : The Ministry, 1994. v, 46 p. : III., Bibl. ISBN 0-7778-1389-0 MICROLOG 94-05079 (1 fiche)

The Dorset Research Centre has been monitoring the surface hydrology of a series of small catch-ments in the Muskoka-Haliburton area since 1976. This report describes the architecture of the database used to store the long term hydrologic moni-toring data collected by the centre. A major pur-pose of the study is the development of catchment water balances for use in hydrochemical mass balances, vital in assessing the effect of airborne anthropogenic contaminants such as acid rain and mercury on the health of soft water ecosystems. Precipitation chemistry is monitored for the study area and provides the atmospheric deposition component.

This paper was prepared by the Indian Registration and Band Lists Directorate for submission to the Royal Commission on Aboriginal Peoples. The goal is to provide factual information on the registration of Indians and the identification of inuit by the federal government, with some emphasis on the Indian Register as the major method by which the government's role is carried out. It covers legisla-tion before and after 1985 including the implications of Bill C-31, unresolved claims for registration, community self-government negotiations and regis tration, the validity of Indian Register data and links between funding programs and Register data. For the inuit, the document discusses history, funding and inuit identification, and the identification of Inuit beneficiaries for land claims. CA ND NP SS

The geometric and temporal interrelationships of folds, foliations, and granitoid plutons are complex and rarely completely defined. To aid further study and provide constraints on tectonic speculations, this note lists and comments on common features that in many domains are open to misinterpretation. Features include early major folds masked by smaller-scale later structures; discontinuous and disharmonic folds not readily projected on crosssections due to variably steep or unknown plunges and facing directions; successive generations of folds and cleavages not distinguished by orientation, interference patterns, metamorphic fabrics, relationships to granitold plutons, or by radiogenic dates; and upright and inclined structures of unknown original areal extent and order of formation. Information is based on maps and associated reports issued or supported by the Geological Survey of Canada and the geological sections of the De-partment of Indian and Northern Affairs and Northwest Territories Minerals Initiatives Office. To ascertain the impacts of stump uprooting operations conducted to control the spread of root dis ease on site productivity, 600 Douglas-fir and 600 lodgepole pine seedlings were planted on seven plots in a cutover north of Golden, British Colum-bia. Equal numbers of trees were planted on tracks and deposits created during stump uprooting, and on undisturbed ground, as confirmed by the pres-ence of an intact humus layer. Soil characteristics were measured initially on disturbed and undis-turbed portions of the cutover, and tree growth was monitored for eight growing seasons after planting. Foliage was sampled for nutrient content after the fifth year. Comparisons of productivity impacts resulting from uprooting stumps and from other forestry operations were made.

A plantation consisting of three plots with 160 seed-lings each of Douglas-fir and lodgepole pine was established in a cutover north of Golden, British Columbia, in the interior Cedar-Hemlock biogeoclimatic zone. To determine the impact of contour-built skidroads on survival and subsequent growth of planted seedlings, plots straddled selected seg-ments of the skidroads. Seedlings were planted in four disturbance categories on the skidroads and in undisturbed soil above and below the skidroads. Soil characteristics were measured initially on the skidroads and in the undisturbed soil adjacent to the skidroads and tree growth was monitored for eight growing seasons after planting. Foliage was sampled for nutrient content at the end of the fifth year. This report provides the results from the plantings.

Improvement in low temperature disintegration (LTD) property of fluxed peliets: final report

Project to investigate possible alternatives to improve the low temperature disintegration (LTD) metallurgical properties of fluxed pellets and thus to increase market share. Pot-grate testwork included classical and design of experiments methods covering major aspects of the test program. Use of some pellet additives to improve LTD property of fluxed pellets, not presently used, were also investigated. The testwork evaluated the effect of variables such as chemistry (silicon dioxide content, basicity, magnesium oxide), mag equivalent (HME), flux grind, and firing conditions on LTD properties. A design of experiments method was used to develop a detailed test program for pellet chemistry and particularly silicon dioxide content outside of the current practice. Thermal analyses and minralogical evaluations were carried out to support overall findings of pot-grate testwork. A data acquisition system was installed and used during the plant testing campaigns to evaluate the effect of various process variables and parameters on LTD properties as well as for verification of some of the pot-grate findings.

This paper outlines factors relevant to a consideration of the appropriate regulatory regime for exports of oil derived from the exploitation of oil sands. The first section outlines the nature and size of Canadian oil sands resources and production in relation to conventional crude oil resources. Section II provides a brief review of the recent history of oil export regulation and section III provides a description of the legislated mandate of the National Energy Board. Section IV discusses what an appropriate regulatory regime might be for export of production from the oil sands, having regard to both the unique characteristics of the oil sands and the regulatory regime the Board has adopted for long-term exports of natural gas and electricity. This section concludes by setting out some possible options for the regulatory treatment of the long-term export of production from the oil sands. Finally, Section V of the paper sets out the issues which the Board requests parties to address in their submissions.

The gross receipts tax is a modest but important revenue source for Ontario municipalities. The current provincial review of the gross receipts tax which is levied municipally on telephone and telegraph companies under the Municipal Act, has the potential to negatively affect a revenue source for Ontario municipalities. The reason for the gross receipts tax review is that increased competition and major changes within the telecommunications industry have resulted in inequities. These inequities were brought about by technological innovations and a CRTC decision to open the long-distance telephone market to competitors. In developing its position on the gross receipts tax issue, AMO has tried to balance the need for a level playing field

This report presents the results of light trappings of adult Ephemeroptera, Trichoptera, and Chironomi-dae on Lake Winnipeg, Manitoba in 1969 and 1971. Light trappings were conducted to augment benth-ic fauna collections from a limnological baseline survey of the lake conducted in 1969. Adult insects were collected to assist in species identification of immature specimens collected in benthic samples and to provide flight period information to clarify life histories. These collections also sampled insect species that inhabited areas of the lake not sampled by ship in the 1969 cruises (depths less than 4 m). CA CF LS MS ND SC

From 1981-84, nineteen experimental plantations were established on a range of eight typical re-forested sectors in seven regions of Quebec. Included in the experiments, which took place during two planting seasons, were one or more of black spruce, white spruce, jack pine, and Scots pine. At least two of the Quebec Tube, Styroblock 2a, Styroblock 4, Styroblock 8, Cam-Am 2, and Paperpot 508 containers were used. This report presents the results of plant height growth for the first five years in the field, and the rate and probable causes of mortality in the field after the first, third, and fifth year following plantation. Analyses of variance were done on the fifth year data and several trends were evident in most of the experiments. CA FO LS ND QU SC

The Tangleflags North Steamflood pilot project was initiated by Sceptre Resources Ltd. and their joint venture partner Murphy Oil Co. Ltd. as an attempt to achieve commercially attractive production rates from a viscous oil reservoir undertain by a water zone and overlain by a gas cap. The studies described in this report were initiated in early 1988 to develop modelling tools for enhanced analysis of field pilot performance and to provide insights for optimization of the horizontal well/steamflood recovery process. A scaled physical model and a numerical reservoir simulation program were used to gain maximum advantage from their respective strengths.

Surveys of mercury contamination of vegetation and/or soil have been conducted regularly in the vicinity of the ICI Forest Products Inc. chlor-aikali plant in Comwall since 1976. In 1985 and 1986, because of complaints from nearby residents, surveys were conducted to investigate chlorine contamination and injury to vegetation attributed to emissions from Domtar Ltd., located due south of ICI. Annual surveys are still being conducted in the vicinity of ICI and Domtar. This report presents the combined results of surveys from 1987-91. Samples were analyzed for mercury, chlorine, fluoride, lead, zinc, and cadmium.

Les objectifs de cette étude sont de trois ordres : 1) déterminer le taux de mortalité des semis en fonction du conteneur utilisé et de la saison de mise en terre; 2) évaluer les causes de mortalité; et 3) analyser la croissance en hauteur des plants. De plus, le document se est divisé en quatre chapitres qui présentent les résultats de chacune de ces quatre expériences de reboisement réalisées du printemps 1981 à l'automne 1984. Les résultats concernant la mortalité et la croissance en hauteur des semis sont présentés pour les cinq années suivant la plantation. Occasionnellement, des résultats couvrant jusqu'à la huittème année après la mise en terre sont données. Une brève discussion traite des différences obtenues selon les conteneurs utilisés.

Après un survoi de la problématique et des méthodes d'analyse multicritères, l'étude fait ressortir les avantages et les limites de trois principaux paradigmes de l'inteiligence artificielles : les réseaux de neurones, le raisonnement déductif et le raisonnement par analogie. Les méthodes d'apprentissage par induction de règles sont par la suite analysées comme paradigme prometteur pour l'intégration des raisonnements déductif et par analogie. Une architecture est finalement proposée pour le développement de systèmes apprentis d'aide à la décision.

Questionnaire sur les stratégies de gestion des cas

Par D.A. Andrews ... et al. Ottawa: Service correctionnel Canada, Communications et développement organisationnel, Direction de la recherche, 1990. 108 p. (Rapport de recherche / Service correctionnel Canada. Direction de la recherche et des statistiques; no R-01 no R-07) MICROLOG 94-04736 (2 fiche)

Le questionnaire sur les stratégies de gestion des cas (SGC) a été conçu à la demande de la haute direction de Service correctionnel Canada (SCC) en vue d'étudier la mise en œuvre des SGC. Ce rapport expose l'analyse des données recueillies jusqu'à maintenant auprès de 528 répondants. Des informations descriptives se rapportant à l'utilisation des SGC et à l'appréciation de leur valeur y sont présentées. Viennent d'abord les informations à caractère démographique et une description de la formation reçue par les répondants. les évaluations du processus de formation sont ensuite analysées de même que la corrélation entre le degré de satisfaction à l'égard de la formation, d'une part, et les variables démographiques et le poste occupé, d'autre part. Cette demière section est suivie de l'examen des données sur la perception générale des SGC en milieu de travail et des facteurs qui s'y rattachent. La section suivante traite de l'évaluation d'éléments précis des SGC. Enfin, les recommandations formulées par les répondants dans le but d'arméliorer les SGC sont exposées en détail.~

Quota options and recommendations for the 1994 geoduck clam fishery

(Canadlan manuscript report of fisheries and aquatic sciences / Canada. Dept. of Fisheries and Oceans; no. 2228 ISSN 0706-6473) CG-P no. Fs 97-4/0000E MICROLOG 94-04846 (2 fiche)

The commercial fishery for geoduck clams began in British Columbia in 1976 and since then has grown to be the major invertebrate fishery in value and second only to the red sea urchin fishery in landings. Individual vessel quotas have been in effect since 1989. There is concern that the fishery is depleting the most accessible stocks of the highest quality. This report presents a range of biomass estimates and harvest rates to date and provides recommendations for reduced quotas for the 1994 fishery.

Rail lands development study, Prince Edward Island : final report

The Province of Prince Edward Island is negotiating the acquisition of about 437 km (272 miles) of abandoned raliway lines from Canadian National Raliway, which it will retain as Crown land in perpetuity after acquisition. This study was conducted to develop an inventory of the rail lands resources, including significant natural and historical resources and other features, and tourist accommodations and facilities existing within a 5 km corridor of the rail lands; and to identify and analyze opportunities and challenges in the appropriate uses for the rail lands. A financial model was developed to examine the impacts of a rail-trail development on the PEI economy that projects trail-related expenditures for both resident and non-resident trail users under three scenarios and forecasts spending for the first five years of trail operation. The report includes evaluation of alternative uses, a development plan, a business plan, and implementation. A summary of the public hearings and the submissions from public interest groups is also included. AP PL PR SC

A proposal to maintain and increase the depth of the main shipping channel in the lower Fraser River by modifying river flows through the installation of training walls was advanced in 1976. Studies were conducted in 1976 and 1977 to provide pertinent information on fish ecology focusing on Tilbury and Deas Sloughs. This report describes aspects of the ecology of starry flounder in Deas Slough, a permanently wetted, tidally influenced region 10 km from the mouth of the Fraser River, and in adjacent estuarine areas. Twelve sampling sites were selected to represent three areas. Fish were sampled for abundance and distribution, age-structure, size and condition, and effects of water characteristics. The water was tested for temperature, salinity, dissolved oxygen, pH, oxidation-reduction potential, and water clarity.

Toronto: Ontario Teachers' Federation, 1991. 21 p. ONTERIS ON06529 MICROLOG 94-04800 (1 fiche)

Clarifies the Federation's position on Bill 43, proposed to protect Ontario residents from harm and misrepresentation in the field of health care. Expresses concern that restrictions could be created which would jeopardize existing services provided as adjuncts to the education system. Gives the example that guidance counselling with any psychotherapeutic value would be prohibited, causing hardship, especially in remote areas where no trained psychotherapists are available. As well, schools provide support to handicapped students which could be interpreted as medical services, as defined in the proposed legislation. Urges the Committee to acknowledge the legitimate roles of other professionals in related fields.

By G. Wells. Toronto: Ontario Institute for Studies in Education, Joint Centre for Teacher Development; Dept. of Curriculum, 1990. 31 p.: Blbl. ONTERIS ON06647 MICROLOG 94-04801 (1 fiche)

Attempts to show that literacy is not a single, homogeneous competence, but involves the ability to engage with texts of different types and in modes appropriate to the different purposes people have in using them. Emphasizes the powerful role texts can play in intellectual development when engaged with as an external representation of meaning which can be reflected upon, interrogated and revised. Cautions that there will need to be radical changes in the ways in which most teachers think about the place of texts of various kinds in classrooms, and about their own role in helping children to engage with them.

Sondage mené auprès des enseignants des écoles de langue française de l'Ontario pour déterminer l'usage qui est fait de la télévision éducative et identifier les facteurs de pénétration. De l'analyse de 630 questionnaires ressort que plus de 80 pour cent des répondants ont utilisé la télévision éducative durant l'année 1989-90. L'usage du magnétoscope est particulièrement répandu. 60 pour cent des enseignants ont utilisé des émissions produites ou distribuées par La Chaîne. La majorité des écoles possèdent les appareils nécessaires. Le taux de pénétration de la télévision en direct varie d'une région à l'autre. La plupart des répondants manifestent de l'intérêt pour la télévision éducative mais aimeraient être mieux préparés à son utilisation. Ils suggèrent notamment l'intervention des personnes-ressource qualifiées ainsi que l'organisation d'ateliers de formation.

The Term structure and real activity in Canada

By B. Cozler. Ottawa: Bank of Canada, 1994. vili, 65 p.: //li., B/b/. (Working paper / Bank of Canada; 94-3 ISSN 1192-5434) ISBN 0-662-21475-7 CCG-P no. FB3-2/94-3E MICROLOG 94-04861 (1 fiche)

This paper examines the predictive content of the term structure of interest rates for economic activity in Canada. Using the theoretical framework provided in the paper, it examines the conditions under which the term spread would better reflect the stance of monetary policy than a short-term interest rate and argues that these conditions are likely to be satisfied in the data. It also evaluates the predictive power of the term structure relative to other common financial variables, namely, the level of interest rates, real M1, stock prices and the profit rate. It assesses the predictive power of the Canadian term structure for Canadian real activity relative to the U.S. term structure.

Unemployment insurance is the federal government's largest single social program and its most controversial. This document asks: How do we make unemployment insurance work? Two papers, by Christopher Green and Fred Lazar, give very direct, if also very differenct, answers to that question. Two other papers, by Miles Corak and Dom-Inique Gross, provide background analysis on what economic research has discovered about the work-ings of Canada's unemployment insurance program and how other countries handle unemployment insurance. CA LA SS

There have been only a few correctional studies examining unlawful departures from minimum security facilities. Perhaps the paucity of research in this area is due in part to the lack of drama that is inherent in having simply slipped away from custody on foot, as opposed to the daring feats associated with escapes. The purpose of this study is to compare a group of federal offenders who has walked away from minimum security facilities to a marched sample of similarly situated offenders who has remained in custody on a variety of relevant measures

The application of a systematic approach to assessing the needs of offenders, the risk of reoffending and any other factor which might affect successful reintegration to the community is a major component of the Correctional Service of Canada's and National Parole Board's standards for conditional release supervision. More recently, ensuring that community-based programming and service delivery effectively meets offender needs has evolved into a service-wide Correctional Strategy. This research examines the validity of an enhanced case management approach to offender needs identification and analysis in community corrections

Cerner le phénomène de la violence à la télévision n'est pas une tâche aisée. Si chacun peut constater l'existence de programmes violents, il est générale-ment moins facile de déterminer la nature exacte de la violence représentée et ses effets sur les individus et les groupes sociaux. Ce rapport a pour objet d'examiner l'état des connaissances scientifiques sur la violence à la télévision, en tenant compte de chacune de ces contraintes. Les travaux y sont regroupés en deux grands axes de recher-che : les recherches sur les perceptions et les usages de la violence à la télévision, et les recherches sur l'agressivité et les comportements violents.
